MMF BISEXUAL ROMANCE: Home For Three

Synopsis

“It’s just sex,” Selwyn said, moving closer. “That’s what I’m afraid of,” she whispered. Jack leaned forward. “It could be more.” “I’m afraid of that, too.” Headstrong, talented Kess has spent the last several years building herself into a successful real estate agent, and she certainly doesn’t have time for a serious relationship, especially after past experiences that have left her hopeless in matters of the heart. When Jack and Selwyn, two gorgeous but clearly unavailable men, ask her to locate the perfect home for them, she jumps at the opportunity to impress her new clients beyond their wildest dreams. It’s also a great excuse for Kess to spend some time with these two magnetic personalities, a much needed break from the monotony of her usual clients. However, when the task proves to be far more challenging than she originally thought due to the couple’s demanding expectations, she starts to waiver in her confidence. But she’s overcome challenges like this before, and she’s confident that she can do it again even when the going gets tough. As the trio continue to develop their professional relationship, however, work turns into play, and casual connections give way to an unexpected blossoming of true love with a dose of serious heartache. However, each of these three people have a fierce independent streak, and adding a third into Jack and Selwyn’s stable relationship might just be too much for anyone to handle. Now all three of them are left questioning everything about themselves, their relationships and how to move forward. They’ve gotten themselves in too deep, and opening their hearts to love may be their undoing. It’s sink or swim time as each member of this relationship must do some heavy duty growing up and letting go of their own egos in order to hold on to the best thing that’s ever happened to them. This is a standalone MMF Bisexual Romance Novel with an HEA ending and no cliffhangers!

Customer Reviews

I received this book in exchange of an honest review. I've read several of Nicole's books and, let me tell you, Home for three is not my favorite, but I enjoyed reading it. What I really liked about this book are its characters. They are totally different from each other, interesting, realistic people with real issues. Nicole did an amazing job of blending those characters together beautifully. Kess - Twenty-something realtor, single, wears her grandma's clothes. Also is an ex sex toy seller. Well, her personality is intriguing, conflicting and boring, all in one. While I didn't particularly fall in love with Kess, I appreciated her passion for work and trusting nature. Who I really loved is Isabell, Kess's BFF. She is a true friend and a rock solid shoulder to cry on with wild imagination and a mouth like a sailor. Hells Bells really is an epitome of a true friend who every person needs in life. Now let's meet our boys, shall we? ...Jack introduces something in this book to which I think almost everyone can relate to - heartbreak. He's been burnt from love and trust isn't something he gives freely. He is serious, standoffish and sociable at the same time. Jack is a bit selfish for my tastes but who's perfect, right? ...Well, maybe Selwyn, he really is close to perfection. I don't think I'll be the only one to wish her boyfriend/husband to be more like Selwyn. I instantly fell in love with his character. He's the person who doesn't dwell on anything, who can make hard choices and face the consequences with head held high, all for someone he loves. He is fiercely loyal, loving, carefree, funny, a true artist with gentle soul and easy-going nature.
